HERE AND THERE

W. F. Patton, Life Insurance.

Hon. Jno. G. Carlisle didn't come.

The public schools gave holiday Wednesday.

Bill Farley, a well known colored man of this city, died yesterday.

The Franklin house, the principal hotel of Clarksville, was burned last Friday.

WANTED—A boy to learn the printing business. Apply at once at this office.

The C. C. G.'s chartered a special train of three cars to bring their company over Thursday.

Many of the boys were broken down physically, morally and financially Saturday night.

It is rumored that an intoxicated man was seen in the city Saturday after the Fair.

Mr. Jas. Higgins has sold the freight transfer business of the city to Messrs. J. M. Hopkins & Son.

A costly quilt made by Miss Bettie Garland, of Clarksville, was exhibited at the Fair and greatly admired. It was called off Saturday, being valued at $60.

Mr. M. L. Moriwether, of Memphis, Tenn., editor of Meriwether's Weekly, will deliver a free lecture at the City Court room to-night. The public is invited to attend.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's negro minstrel troupe will fill an engagement at the Grand Opera House next Saturday night. The mere announcement is enough to draw a full house. Tickets $1.

The Fair was a successful one. Good crowds were in attendance every day and the crowd Saturday was the largest ever on the grounds. It is estimated that more than 7,000 people were there. We have not space to give a list of the premiums awarded, which amounted to $3,000.

The engineer at the gas works made an awkward blunder Thursday and turned a quantity of steam into the gas reservoir and the result was that the gas lights were almost useless that night. At Holland's Opera House the programme had to be cut short and the audience had not been out of the house five minutes until the jets went out entirely.

During the races Friday one of the jockeys, a white man from Franklin, was knocked from his horse by a collision with another rider and thrown heavily against a fence. It was at first thought that his injuries were fatal, but he subsequently began to improve and was soon able to be about.

The C. C. G.'s bore off the $200 premium offered for the best drilled Military Company Thursday. Company D, was the only competing company. The drilling of the Clarksville boys was simply superb. The committee to decide the contest consisted of Col. Klett, of Edmonson, Capt. H. M. Roberts, of Logan, and Capt. Ralph Sheldon, of Nelson.

Messrs. Rank and Wright, of the Evansville Commercial College, have recently introduced instruction in shorthand in connection with their business course and can give a complete course of instruction in phonography in from 8 to 10 months. Prof. J. W. Rank, a young gentleman of talent, capacity and thorough knowledge of the work, is the teacher in that important department. There is a great demand for shorthand writers and a young man who will qualify himself for the work can always command employment at the highest wages and we know of no school where it can be learned better than in Evansville Commercial College.

The Fair Hop.

The hop given at Mozart Hall last Wednesday evening was the most brilliant that has been given in the city for years. The beauty and brilliancy of Hopkinsville and surrounding towns were largely represented. We can only give a brief description of some of the costumes worn, as our space is limited.

Miss Bobb, New Orleans, white satin and natural flowers.

Miss Addie Beaumont, Clarksville, white satin and Spanish lace; diamond ornaments.

Miss Mary Howerton, Clarksville, pink nun's veiling and pearl ornaments.

Miss Annie Johnston, Clarksville, black satin with lace and diamonds.

Miss Annie Sassen, Henderson, olive velvet and satin.

Miss Mollie Mason, Henderson, embroidered mull.

Miss Laura Ratcliff, Princeton, embroidered mull and diamonds.

Miss Katie Hillyer, Henderson, black satin with diamonds.

Miss Florence Graves, Nashville, Tulu satin, Spanish lace and diamonds.

Miss Mary Burnett, Cadiz, pink silk and Spanish lace.

Miss Mary McCree, Clarksville, white nun's veiling and pearls.

Miss Annie Campbell, Clarksville, pink nun's veiling and diamonds.

Miss Mollie Duke, Princeton, blue silk with satin velvet; pearls.

Miss Mollie Gringer, Cadiz, white mull; coral ornaments.

Miss Charlie Ware, Trenton, cream nun's veiling and lace.

Miss Annie Richardson, Pomeroy, white mull, scarlet satin and natural flowers.

Mrs. Ben Gray, Columbus, Miss, black brocade satin and pearls.

Mrs. Mark McCarty, Cadiz, black satin and plush.

Miss Carrie Warfield, county, coral dinal satin with gold jewelry.

Miss Maude Warfield, cream mull and satin.

Miss Bettie Massie, county, cream mull and scarlet satin.

Miss Sallie Cook, county, white satin and black velvet and pearl ornaments.

Miss Lizzie Tandy, city, white satin and lace with gold ornaments.

Miss Mamie Henry, county, blue crepe and satin; natural flowers.

Miss Mattie Hickman, city, white embroidered mull and diamonds.

Miss Annie Ware, city, embroidered camel's hair.

Miss May Ware, black satin with gold ornaments.

Miss Cyntia Westfall, city, cream brocade satin.

Miss Emma Glass, city, white mull and lace.

Miss Lou Redd, white tulle with satin waist.

Miss Mattie Stoner, county, white mull with red trimmings.

Miss Lulu Bryan, city, white mull and satin.

Miss Annie Waller, city, white with lace and pearls.

Miss Emma Leavell, city, white mull with lace.

Miss Mattie Campbell, city, white with satin and lace.

Miss Bobbie Dixon, Pomeroy, white tulle with white lace and gold ornaments.

The music was furnished by Warren's band, of Evansville, and the occasion was a most enjoyable one. It was remarked that so large a number of pretty young ladies was never before seen on a ball room floor in Hopkinsville. Beauty was the rule and not the exception.

BANNER PRESENTATION

Company D, Flag-elated.

One of the most interesting features of the Fair was the presentation of an elegant banner to "Co. D," by the young ladies of the city who visited the Mammoth Cave encampment last summer. At 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Misses Lella Ware, Lizzie Tandy, Annie Ware, Mattie Stoner, May Ware, Annie Waller, Belle Henry and Lallie Woodbridge ascended the stand erected for the purpose. The beautiful and costly banner was borne by Col. Klett, of the Mammoth Cave hotel, and Co. D. was drawn up in line to receive it. The flag was of a dark blue color with golden fringe and trimmings and a gold star for each of the 54 members of the company. Above the stars were the motto and emblems of the State and the words "Company D, K. S. G. Oct. 4, 1892." The exact cost of the banner is not known, except to the young ladies, but it is understood that it cost considerably over $100.

After a short drill the company formed in line between the stand and the amphitheatre and Miss Annie B. Ware, one of Hopkinsville's loveliest daughters, stepped forward and presented the banner, speaking in a clear, distinct voice as follows:

"Officers and soldiers of Co. D.—A most pleasing duty has been confided to me—that of presenting to you this beautiful banner, a fitting tribute from lovelessness to chivalry.

"Thousand glorious actions that may claim, throughout laurels and immortal fame," as we gaze upon the beloved, garb, a type of the one that pushed on through the smoke and blood, famine and battle, of the revolution to this fair land of promise, the rich inheritance of republican freedom which we to-day enjoy.

"Hail then patriot soldiers! Hail gallant soldiers of Co. D! To your keeping I, as the medium of the fair and lovely donors, confide this beautiful banner, and I hope and believe it is more glorious far in your sight than the imperial cross of Constellation."

Bear it in peace as the bond of patriotism, the type and emblem of our nationality, and should we "again unknit the chariot knot of all abhorred war," which will shroud these stars in the smoke of bursting artillery, still bear it bravely as its counterpart was borne at Lexington, at Yorktown and at Blue Bluff, even in the front, the beacon light of valor, victory and deathless renown.

"Co. D, I, with pride and confidence, place this banner in your hands."

As soon as the prolonged applause subsided, Capt. W. E. Smith, commander of Co. D, stepped forward and responded as follows:

"In accepting this beautiful banner, which has been prepared by the young ladies of this city and presented to Co. D by Miss Ware in their behalf, allow me, in behalf of this entire Co., to express their sincere thanks for the high compliment which you have paid them in making this presentation, which not only assures them of your appreciation of the Co., but also of your kindly interest for its future success.

And in accepting this banner, which now floats in all of its splendor and grandeur it would afford me the greatest pleasure to make you a speech on this occasion, which is not only one of the happiest moments of my own life, but it is true of this entire Co., but I feel that anything I might say in their behalf would only be a poor effort on my part to express their feelings and my own on this memorable occasion.

But I will promise you now, that this beautiful banner shall ever be guarded by the members of this Co., and always be held as an emblem of their appreciation of your kind remembrance and generosity, and it shall not only float in their columns in times of peace, but when the distant hand of invading armies shall be heard over our heads, it shall then float over the heads of this gallant body of Kentucky's sons, where they have gone ever ready to defend the rights of their country.

And although this banner might not be returned afterwards in all of the beauty it now possesses, still it should be proof of itself, that this Co. stood not only where the rattling of musketry and pealing of mighty guns poured forth their flames of fire, with eternal vengeance upon them and where the shot and shell fell thickest from the enemy's lines, but even then in honor of these young ladies, who have made this presentation, this banner shall wave, giving evidence that all is well, and leading on its gallant followers to victory, where they have gone it may be to sacrifice all, save honor, in defence of their country, making a name to be recorded in the pages of history (and distinguishing the chivalry of this grand old Commonwealth) which shall live for ever. And to the members of this Co., while you stand before these young ladies the fairest of Kentucky's daughters, who have honored you in making the presentation of this lovely banner, let me say to you now, let the motto of each of you be that which is upon this banner, representing the motto of this grand old State, for on that your future success as a Co., depends. And in conclusion, ladies, you will once more, allow me to return the sincere and heartfelt thanks of this Company for this beautiful banner.

DIED.

THUR: At his residence in Rome, broke, Saturday, Oct. 7th, Dr. Wm. M. Tice, of typhoid fever.

Dr. Tice was in the prime of manhood and was a young physician who was rapidly rising in his profession. He enjoyed the respect and esteem of all who knew him and no young man had brighter prospects for a happy and useful career. He was married less than a year ago to Miss Minnie Payne, a daughter of Mr. Newton Payne, of this city. The funeral was preached at Bethel church yesterday and the remains interred in the cemetery in this city.

MERRITT: At his home on the Butler road, seven miles from this city, Thursday Oct. 5th, Jas. W. T. Merritt, Esq. Merritt was the father of Messrs. Joe and Dan Merritt, of this city. His death was very sudden and was a severe blow to his family and friends.

Attempted Suicide

Tom Davenport, aged 26, who lives six miles from town on the Princeton road, took 20 grains of strychnine Friday evening at 6 o'clock, with suicidal intent. He was intoxicated and had lost money on the races and was in a very despondent frame of mind. At 9 o'clock he began to have convulsions, which was the first intimation that anything excepting drunkenness was the matter with him. Dr. Andrew Seagraves was sent for and after examining him decided that he had taken strychnine and began to administer antidotes and by the most skillful and indefatigable attention succeeded in saving his life. He was rigid and speechless when his condition was discovered, and his recovery was a miracle. He is now out of danger, and has decided to live a little longer.

The Most Gigantic Collection of Wonderful Wild Beasts on this Continent.

Adam Forepaugh, whose great show is shortly to exhibit here, has been most assiduously laboring for almost a quarter of a century to secure the very best and largest collection of rare forest animals and birds ever exhibited. That the veteran and ambitious manager has succeeded, the following list of animals, now on exhibition in his vast menagerie conclusively demonstrates: In addition to lions, tigers, polar bears, 20
